This Advertising Guide describes Wells Fargo's requirements for advertising our financing program and replaces any prior editions of this document.

At Wells Fargo, we want to help our customers succeed financially.

We're committed to making financial services available to everyone on a fair and consistent basis and providing all applicants an equal opportunity to obtain responsible consumer financing. It's a commitment we expect not only from our employees, but also the merchants that we do business with.

Fair and Responsible Lending applies to all of us, and we have a shared responsibility to comply with both the spirit and letter of the law, including federal, state, and local laws that prohibit discrimination in lending and other unfair, deceptive, or abusive practices. Because we believe in providing fair and consistent access to credit, we're firmly committed to ensuring that all credit applicants and prospective credit applicants are treated appropriately throughout the entire lending process.

Specific to Wells Fargo financing programs:

Advertising guidelines from other credit card program providers do not replace these guidelines because requirements may not transfer across financing providers. Advertising guidelines are subject to change, so please check the Online Resource Center at wellsfargo.com/retailservices when designing your advertising to make sure you are using the current version of this document. The disclosures and guidelines within this document are examples only and relate solely to the advertising of Wells Fargo financing. Advertising guidelines will vary with your specific financing offer, so please refer to the correct section of the document for the appropriate guidelines. This updated edition:

- Replaces any prior editions of this document.
- Gives example advertisements illustrating how to follow these guidelines.
- Includes guidelines that are for merchant use only and are specific to the Wells Fargo consumer financing programs. This guide should not be given to outside parties, including other credit providers, customers, or cardholders.

THIS DOCUMENT DOES NOT CONSTITUTE LEGAL ADVICE.

Wells Fargo does not provide legal advice to merchants. To make sure you comply with all laws, please also consult with your attorney for independent legal advice.

Understand the guidelines

Complying with the advertising requirements is in the best interests of you and your customers. Please read this important information to understand the guidelines before you create any ads that promote the Wells Fargo financing program.

How do I do my best to ensure compliant advertising?

Advertising the details of your credit card program accurately, clearly, and conspicuously helps customers understand the credit costs and terms you're offering. This helps build trust and creates a positive customer experience with your business and ours. The ultimate test is not just the size of the font or the location of the disclosure, but whether the information is actually conveyed to the customer.

Please review your advertising and marketing on a regular basis to ensure compliance with regulatory requirements and our Advertising Guidelines. In addition, always practice fair and responsible lending principles by being transparent and inclusive in your sales and marketing efforts including but not limited to the following:

- Offering credit to all customers.
- Presenting the same special terms promotions to all customers.
- Advertising in such a way as to ensure the viewing public does not believe themselves excluded on the basis of their race, sex, disability, or any other prohibited discriminatory basis through the use of words, images, or the location or publication in which the ads are published. This can be accomplished by using models of varying age, ethnicity, or sex; neighborhoods and housing representative of all income groups; products commonly used or associated across gender, race, and ethnic lines, and so on.

How is advertising regulated?

State and federal laws and regulators that mandate specific rules when promoting financing include but are not limited to:

- UDAAP (Unfair, Deceptive and Abusive Acts & Practices) laws
- The Truth in Lending Act (TILA), including Regulation Z
- Regulation B (Equal Credit Opportunity Act)
- Controlling the Assault of Non-Solicited Pornography And Marketing Act of 2003 (CAN-SPAM Act)
- The Federal Trade Commission (FTC)
- Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB)

For more information on the FTC, go to ftc.gov. Information about the CFPB can be found at consumerfinance.gov.

What happens if I don't follow advertising laws and regulations?

Wells Fargo and third-party advertisers like you are both responsible for complying with advertising laws. Not complying may result in penalties such as fines, reputation damage, and other negative consequences for both Wells Fargo and the advertiser. Please consult your attorney.

Are the guidelines for all financing programs the same?

No. Different state and federal laws apply to different consumer finance programs, and advertising guidelines from other credit card program providers do not replace ours. Our guidelines are based on Wells Fargo policy, and all requirements may not transfer across financing providers.

What kind of ads do these guidelines cover?

All advertising in any type of media (such as online, TV, radio, print, and social media) that promotes consumer financing available through your Wells Fargo credit card program is subject to these guidelines.

What is Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) compliance?

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) provides protection to individuals with disabilities. Under the ADA, persons with disabilities are required to be given services and accommodations in the most integrated setting appropriate to their individual needs. Wells Fargo is committed to ensuring equal access to its products and services for these individuals and has different communication aids to help our cardholders obtain important information about our card program.

For the purpose of this Advertising Guide, we'll focus on the ADA Standards for Accessible Design. To comply with the ADA Standards, all electronic and information technology must be accessible to people with a wide range of disabilities, including:

- Blindness and low vision
- Cognitive limitations
- Deafness and hearing loss
- Limited movement
- Learning disabilities
- Speech disabilities

How do I comply with the ADA Standards for Accessible Design?

As published in the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines \(WCAG\) 2.0 Level AA, there are four areas of focus:

1. Perceivable

- Provide all information in alternative ways. Examples include, but are not limited to:
 - Alternative text for images.
 - Closed captioning for audio-only messages.
 - Audio for video-only messages.
- Determine if color contrast meets Level AA requirements; see the WebAIM Contrast Checker.

2. Operable

- Ensure users can navigate a site using only a keyboard.
- Do not restrict users by time; allow enough time for content to be read and understood.
- Avoid flashes within a site that could cause a seizure.

3. Understandable

- Create content that is easy to read and understand.
- Make the appearance and operation of web pages predictable.
- Provide users with contextual help and error prevention to help avoid and correct mistakes.

4. Robust

- Create content that can be interpreted by assistive technologies, such as screen readers.
- Use standard HTML controls to meet user interface component specifications.

Not all financing is the same

Here's how our program works:

The consumer financing program through Wells Fargo offers consumers the ability to finance purchases from you with a card and should be described as a credit card program. The card accesses a revolving line of credit that can be used for future purchases for personal, family, or household use up to the available credit limit. The card carries an Annual Percentage Rate (APR) based on when it was opened and is not an interest-free credit card. However, special (promotional) terms may be offered.

Special terms :

No Interest if Paid in Full (regular minimum payment plans)

- Deferred interest: Interest accrues on the promotional (special terms) purchase at the regular APR for Purchases; however, interest will not be charged if the purchase is paid in full within the promotional period.
- Minimum monthly payments are required; however, paying only the minimum payment each month will not pay off the purchase balance within the promotional period.
- To avoid interest charges, the customer must either pay more than the minimum monthly payment or make a lump sum payment before the end of the promotional period.

0% APR (equal payment plans)

- Customers make equal monthly payments with a 0% APR over a specified time period.
- 0% APR continues to apply until the qualifying purchases are paid in full.

Special (Reduced) Rate (regular, custom, and equal payment plans)

- Customers make monthly payments with a Special Rate over a specified time period.
- Special Rate continues to apply until the qualifying purchases are paid in full.

Selecting general or trigger term advertising

When creating financing ads, there are many things to consider — the amount of space available, the length of your promotion, the level of complexity you’re willing to accept, and so on. Use the chart below to determine which type of advertising is best for you.

General advertising

Simplest approach to advertising financing. Same headlines and disclosures apply to all financing plan types.

This should be your go-to approach when you have space limitations or are advertising on social media or billboards.

Example headlines:

- Special financing for [XX] months*
- Ask about our financing options*
- Buy now, pay over time*
- Convenient monthly payments available*

See page 13 for more general headlines.

A short disclosure can be used, including a credit approval statement and a call-to-action. Example disclosures:

*Subject to credit approval. Ask for details.

*With approved credit. Ask for details.

“Call for details” may be used in place of “Ask for details” if a phone number is provided within the ad.

For digital channels, a clear call to action like

Financing Terms > can be used in place of “Ask for details.”

Promotion-specific advertising/trigger terms

More complex approach to advertising financing. Each plan has its own set of approved headlines and disclosures. In some instances, subheads are also required.

If using trigger terms in your advertising, allow enough space for your disclosure language. When advertising online, disclosures must be one click away. Refer to the details later in this guide that match your plan and channel.

Trigger terms are words or phrases that prompt additional regulatory disclosures to clarify the credit costs and terms being promoted. Examples include:

- Statements of interest, such as “0% APR” or “No Interest”
- Monthly payment amounts

See pages 14-19 for more trigger term scenarios.

Full disclosure is required. Refer to pages 14-18 for proper disclosure language for your promotion.

For example, our full disclosures begin with the following:

*The [Card Name] credit card is issued by Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., an Equal Housing Lender. Special terms for ...

Please note that monthly payment advertising comes with additional requirements. See page 10 for details.

The finer details of disclosures

Where are my disclosures?	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• No Interest if Paid in Full: pages 14-15• 0% APR: page 16• Special (Reduced) Rate: pages 17-19
When do I use them?	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• All mentions of financing require a disclosure.• As outlined on page 8, the short disclosure can be used for general references and the full disclosure is required when trigger terms are present.
Are there minimum font requirements?	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Yes. Always remember to use clear and conspicuous financing disclosures and offer limitations.<ul style="list-style-type: none">– PRINT MEDIA: 8-point type for print ads up to 8.5" x 11"; proportionally larger type for print ads greater than 8.5" x 11"– DIGITAL MEDIA: 10-point type (equivalent to 13.4 pixels) for email or online advertising; clear, descriptive language when linking to financing disclosures (which must appear one click away)
What offer limitations should be defined?	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Minimum purchase, down payment, or taxes and delivery: If you require one of these, it must be mentioned directly in the ad.• Expiration date: Include an expiration date if the offer is not always available.• Product limitations: List excluded products or identify products the offer applies to.
Why are footnote indicators important?	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• You'll notice throughout this guide that our examples use consistent footnote indicators (such as asterisks or superscript numbers) after each headline and before each disclosure. This helps the consumer accurately tie the two items together. This is especially important when there are multiple disclosures on an ad. For multiple disclosures, use numbered footnote indicators in order of appearance, as they are easier to follow.• For multiple-page ads, direct customers to the disclosure by adding "Refer to page [X] for important credit costs and terms" on the page with the financing headline.

Advertising monthly payments

Special financing lets consumers buy today and pay over time – or make convenient monthly payments.

While monthly payment advertising may be appealing, it comes with additional regulatory requirements. Follow the guidance below when advertising monthly payments. See pages 23, 26, 31, and 46 for examples.

Required elements

- Monthly payment amount¹
- Length of time to repay
- Optional: Include APR for the promotional plan²
- Total of payments

Disclosure

1. Monthly payment is based on purchase price alone excluding taxes. Credit purchases subject to credit approval. Other transactions may affect the monthly payment. Offer expires [MM/DD/YYYY]. Ask for details.
2. If you add the APR, include the full disclosure for that plan – see pages 14-19.

Display notes

- All required elements except the disclosure must be equally prominent: same font, color, size, and so on.
- If one element is more noticeable than the rest, it is not equally prominent.

Limitations

- No Interest if Paid in Full (regular minimum payment) plan: Monthly payments should not be advertised with this plan due to the complexity of payment options.
- Do not use the phrase “as low as” when referring to a payment amount. The monthly payment amount is based on a specific purchase amount.

Calculating payments

- Sign on to the Online Resource Center and use the “Estimate a Payment” tool on the Internet Processing System tab to get proper calculations.
- Calculations always round UP; you may round up to the nearest dollar.

Let's get started

Selecting a promotion.

- Make sure the plan advertised is on your Price Sheet (if you don't know, ask your relationship representative for a copy).
- Understand what the promotion means for your customer – see page 7 for explanations.

What's most important to you?

- Easiest approach: Avoid trigger terms like a mention of interest or monthly payments. See the General Advertising column on page 8 for a quick reference and page 13 for additional headline ideas.
- Stating length of time: You can still avoid trigger terms and state month or years. See the General Advertising column on page 8 for quick reference and page 13 for additional headline ideas.
- Using promotion specifics, like “no interest”: Pay special attention to the details.
 - This requires approved headlines, full disclosure language, and sometimes a subhead.
 - See pages 14-15 for the No Interest if Paid in Full plan, page 16 for the 0% APR plan, and pages 17-19 for the Special (Reduced) Rate plan.

How to create your EQUAL PAYMENTS advertisements

1. Choose your headline:

- [X.XX]% APR with [##] equal monthly payments.¹
- [##] equal monthly payments with a [X.XX]% APR.¹
- Special Rate of [X.XX]% APR with [##] equal monthly payments.¹
- [##] equal monthly payments with a Special Rate of [X.XX]% APR.¹
- Reduced Rate of [X.XX]% APR with [##] equal monthly payments.¹
- [##] equal monthly payments with a Reduced Rate of [X.XX]% APR.¹

2. Include a subhead if:

- You require a minimum purchase or down payment, include "with a minimum purchase/down payment of $[X,XXX]" language.

3. Add the full disclosure below using only the parts that apply to your credit card program:

¹The [Card Name] credit card is issued by Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., an Equal Housing Lender. Special terms apply to qualifying purchases charged with approved credit. The special terms APR of [X.XX]% will apply to the qualifying purchase, and [##] monthly payments equal to [Y.YYYY%] of the original special terms balance are required. The advertised terms are an estimate assuming required monthly payments are made on the payment due date; no other balances are currently carried or will be carried on the account; and no additional charges are or will be added to the account. Because your actual account activity may be different than the assumptions used, or because of rounding, the number of payments or the final payment amount could be different than the advertised terms. The special terms APR will continue to apply until all qualifying purchases are paid in full. The APR for Purchases will apply to certain fees such as a late payment fee or if you use the card for other transactions. For new accounts, the APR for Purchases is 28.99%. Frequently asked questions

What is a headline?	The most prominent language in the advertisement where the financing promotion and/or monthly payment is emphasized.
What is a subhead?	Additional language required in the advertisement, immediately next to or below the headline.
What is a disclosure?	Language detailing credit cost and terms information of the product or products featured in the advertisement. Disclosures must be clear and conspicuous, but can, in some cases, be featured less prominently than the advertising headline. The disclosures required for each type of financing promotion are detailed in each section of this guide.
What are trigger terms?	Words or phrases that prompt additional regulatory disclosures in the headline, subhead, and/or disclosure of the advertisement to clarify the credit costs and terms that are being promoted, whether positively or negatively mentioned (for example, “no annual fee”). Trigger terms to be aware of when promoting financing include, but are not limited to: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• No interest• Statements of interest, such as 9.90% APR• Circumstances under which a finance charge may be imposed• No annual fee*• No prepayment penalties*• Monthly payment amount• Explanation of how a finance charge is determined• When a finance charge begins to accrue• Whether or not any time period exists when the credit extended may be repaid without incurring a finance charge (If such time period exists, the specific time period should be stated) *If you use ONLY “no annual fee” or “no prepayment penalties” in your advertisement (with NO other trigger terms), you may use this disclosure: The [Card Name] credit card is issued with approved credit by Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. For new accounts, the APR for Purchases is 28.99%. If you are charged interest in any billing cycle, the minimum interest charge will be $1.00. This information is accurate as of MM/01/YYYY and is subject to change. For current information, call us at 1-800-431-5921.
What is a call-to-action?	The desired action you want your customer to take (for example, “Apply now” or “Learn more”). In online advertising, a call-to-action is a banner, a button, or some other type of clickable graphic or text meant to prompt a user to take the desired action.

How do I link to financing disclosures?

Always use a link with clear, descriptive language that makes it obvious the link takes readers to financing terms (for example, “See Financing Terms”). Make sure to use consistent hyperlink styles and take readers directly to the disclosures. For more information, refer to the FTC’s .com Disclosures Guide (<https://ftc.gov/tips-advice/business-center/guidance/com-disclosures-how-make-effective-disclosures-digital>).

How should I identify Wells Fargo in our financing ads?

Identify Wells Fargo in the proper disclosure (for example, “Financing issued with approved credit by Wells Fargo Bank, N.A.”). Never use the Wells Fargo logo, Wells Fargo stagecoach, or other visual Wells Fargo brand representations in your ads, since using our brand is a trademark infringement. We’ve also created financing ads for your website that you may download for free from the Marketing tab of the Online Resource Center at wellsfargo.com/retailservices.

What are the special rules for California?

When an actual or estimated monthly payment amount is identified in any promotional material, California state law may require substantial information be added. Because the additional information varies, no universal template works in all situations. For this reason, merchants should not identify a monthly payment amount unless the promotional material is submitted to Wells Fargo Retail Services at ClientAdvertisingReview@wellsfargo.com ten or more business days before its planned use. Wells Fargo Retail Services will work with merchants to evaluate the promotion and, if necessary, draft a tailored disclosure including required additional information.

How do I calculate monthly payments?

Sign on to the Online Resource Center at wellsfargo.com/retailservices and use the Estimate a Payment tool when creating advertisements that feature monthly payments. The Estimate a Payment tool can be found under the Internet Processing System tab in the left navigation bar.

To use the tool, enter the Amount to Finance, followed by the Plan Number of the promotion you are using. You can enter up to three amounts and/or plans at one time.

Once you input the appropriate information, you will receive the monthly payment amount, the total amount of payments, and the time period to pay in full to use in your advertisement. Refer to pages 23, 26, 31, and 46 for more details on monthly payment advertising.

What is CAN-SPAM and Designated Sender?

The CAN-SPAM Act is a law that sets the rules for commercial email, gives recipients the right to have you stop emailing them, and spells out tough penalties for violations. CAN-SPAM also includes provisions that address the duties of “senders” and “initiators” of commercial electronic mail messages (“Designated Senders”). If a commercial email from you includes advertising about your products/services and the Wells Fargo Credit Card Program, you are the Designated Sender for purposes of CAN-SPAM compliance and agree to comply with the requirements in the CAN-SPAM rule (16 C.F.R. § 316). Below is a summary of the main requirements.

- Don’t use false or misleading header information. Your “From:”, “To:”, “Reply-To:”, and routing information – including the originating domain name and email address – must be accurate and identify the person or business who initiated the message.
- Don’t use deceptive subject lines. The subject line must accurately reflect the content of the message.
- Identify the message as an ad. The law gives you a lot of leeway in how to do this, but you must disclose clearly and conspicuously that your message is an advertisement.
- Tell recipients where you’re located. Your message must include your valid physical postal address. This can be your current street address, a post office box you’ve registered with the U.S. Postal Service, or a private mailbox you’ve registered with a commercial mail receiving agency established under Postal Service regulations.
- Tell recipients how to opt out of receiving future email from you. Your message must include a clear and conspicuous explanation of how the recipient can opt out of getting email from you in the future. Make sure your spam filter doesn’t block these opt-out requests.
- Honor opt-out requests promptly. Any opt-out mechanism you offer must be able to process opt-out requests for at least 30 days after you send your message. You must honor a recipient’s opt-out request in a timely manner. Wells Fargo’s policy is to honor a recipient’s opt-out request within 5 business days. You cannot charge a fee, require the recipient to give you any personally identifying information beyond an email address, or make the recipient take any step other than sending a reply email or visiting a single page on an Internet website as a condition for honoring an opt-out request.
